

What do you have to tell us?

With the pandemic, your habits have turned upside down, you may have faced some new challenges and your needs may have changed.

It's the same for the STL: we are in a time of change and we really want to hear from you.

Help us to better understand your expectations and improve your experience. As a token of our appreciation, some great prizes will be drawn for participants.

Take our survey at STLaval.ca/winter2022

The not-so-secret bus code

Have you noticed a four-digit ID number on every one of our buses?
Do you know what it means?

We prepared a fun read for you, if you're interested or want to try decoding our buses.

Learn all about it at STLaval.ca/decoding

Prochain arrêt, un balado de la STL.

You can still listen to our podcast!

Listen to episodes of our French-language podcast "Prochain arrêt, un balado de la STL" for stories from bus drivers, to meet one of the first female bus drivers, to learn how we plan the network and much more.

Listen to our podcast on your favourite platform or on STLaval.ca/balado

Work from home, go back to the office or work in hybrid mode: Choose the best approach for you

If you only need to commute by bus within Laval, opt for an STL fare or pass. If you make no more than four round trips per week, the STL's 8-ticket bundle will cost less than a monthly pass.

If you need to use more than one mode of transportation between Laval, Montréal or the urban agglomeration of Longueuil, the 10-ticket All Modes AB bundle could be the best deal. If you make over 15 round trips per month, the TRAM Zone 3 monthly pass is likely the best option.

Find the right fare or pass at STLaval.ca/purchase